

Abstract of the Disclosure

An object of the present invention is to realize a semiconductor device having a high TFT characteristic. In manufacturing an active matrix display device, electric resistivity of the electrode material is kept low by preventing 5 penetration of oxygen ion into the electrode in doping of an impurity ion. A display device having a low electric resistivity can be obtained.